In any town it is a serious matter to allow a private business to make use of the public street and sidewalks for the storage and operation of its equipment. In Carmel, where the citizens value so greatly the woodsy appearance of the streets in the residence district that they put up with the inconvenience that lack of paving and street lights entail, to allow a private corporation to encumber the sidewalks with its equipment is an especially grave decision for the council to make.

When Carmel people make so considerable a sacrifice to maintain the attractiveness of their streets, it doesn't seem unreasonable to require a commercial enterprise such as the Alarm Corporation, to put up with the inconveniences and additional expense of keeping their transformers underground, especially when they have not shown that the expense is prohibitive, nor the inconvenience excessive.

Last week the city council, with one dissenting vote, gave the Alarm Corporation (the T.V. coaxial cable people) permission to put one of their transformer boxes above ground, and if the corporation succeeds in dressing it up to the satisfaction of the landscaping committee, the council will reverse the action of a previous council, which insisted the transformers be placed underground, and allow the T.V. people to place 26 boxes on the sidewalks in the residence area. Twenty-six to start. As the business of the company increases, so will the number of boxes.

Francis Whitaker, the one councilman who voted no, pointed out that the company had made no effort to discover if there were some way of cooling their transformers in their underground boxes—one of their arguments had been that the transformers heated and occasionally burned out. No council member inquired how the utility companies in communities where power lines are underground, have met the problem of underground transformers.

Several of the council members seemed to think the Alarm Corporation should have special consideration as the saviors of Carmel from the blight of television aerials, forgetting that they themselves passed an ordinance limiting the height of television aerials to such an extent as to make aerials in this poor-reception area useless.

Several television subscribers (there are 360 in the city, out of a population of 5000) seem to be under the impression that the corporation will discontinue service in the community if they are not allowed to take their boxes out of the ground and put them on the sidewalks; and that if the boxes are placed above ground, the corporation will increase the service by adding another channel. The Alarm Corporation has been in operation here since 1952 with its transformers underground. They made no statement to the council that they would have to go out of

Plan Board Aloof Re. T.V. Boxes

The Carmel planning commission at its meeting yesterday afternoon refused to say yes or no to the Alarm Corporation's sketch of how they plan to beautify the T-V Cable transformer box the city council has given them permission to put above ground as a trial. The planning commission pointed out that the matter had not been referred to them by the council, but to the combined landscaping committee made up of two planning commission members and two council members, and that committee was supposed to pass judgment on the box after it had been installed and prettied up by the Alarm Corporation.

If the combined landscaping committee thinks the box handsome enough, 26 others will be dug up and put up on the sidewalks in the residence district, the council has decided, with more to come as the company adds subscribers.

Planning commission members of the landscape committee are Dora Comstock and Clarence Bates; council members are Francis Whitaker and Geraldine Smith.

New Planning Commission Chairman Frank Putnam announced his committee appointments at yesterday's meeting, suggesting that in the future, spade work would be done by screening committees who would come to meetings armed with facts and figures, and perhaps a recommendation, to aid the commission as a whole in arriving at decisions.

In addition to the landscape committee above, there is an architectural control committee: Geo. Willox and Gladys Kiplinger; Zoning and Variances: Herb Blanks and Florence Josselyn.

It was decided to shift the meeting date so that the study session will meet the third Wednesday of the month and the regular meeting will be called on the fourth Wednesday. This means there will be a regular meeting of the planning commission next Wednesday.

Preceding the meeting, there were two public hearings. The Church of the Wayfarer was granted a 90-day use permit to hold services in the Golden Bough Theatre while alterations are in progress at the church building.

The Holt estate was denied per-

Sunset Graduates Biggest Class Ever Tonight

The largest graduation class in the history of Sunset School, 92 students, will march down the aisles of Sunset Auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock to the music of Pomp and Circumstance, played by the Sunset School orchestra. The girls will be dressed in pastel cotton frocks, with white gloves, and the boys will all be done away in their best suits for the occasion. Seating the class on the platform for the ceremonies has presented somewhat of a problem to the staff as never before have so many students had to be accommodated.

Gordon Douglas, president of the class, will lead the salute to the flag and give the address of

Hallett, Menand Win Pine Cone Annual Conservation Prize

The Annual Pine Cone Conservation Prize will be presented at the High School commencement exercises tomorrow night to two students, Jim Hallett and Jon Menand. Each will receive $25.00. Usually this award has been given to a group of students working on a conservation project under the sponsorship of Miss Edith Larson, biology teacher at the school, who this year is on leave of absence. The two boys have been chosen for the prize because of their outstanding individual records of work and interest in conservation projects. Both of the graduates plan to attend college and plan a career in forestry. This Pine Cone prize is given each year to stimu-

68 Seniors Will Receive Diplomas On Friday Night

Tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium, Carmel High School will graduate its fifteenth class, consisting of 68 students. As is traditional with the school, the graduates will proceed down the two aisles to the measures of Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance, and will be clad in navy blue caps and gowns.

An innovation this year in graduation programs at the school, is the choice by the class of a speaker imported for the occasion. They have chosen Dr. Garff B. Wilson, professor of speech and dramatic arts at the University of California. Garff is also assistant to the president and in charge of the Cal-

CRICKET CLUB SPLITS WITH MARIN

Del Monte Cricket Club's hopes for an undefeated season were shattered by the Marin Club Sunday afternoon as the visitors rebounded from an 113-73 defeat on Saturday to halt the surging Del Monte squad, 81 to 80, in the second match. Winners of five straight after Saturday's victory, Del Monte owned the distinction of defeating every league team. Saturday's match was close all the way and turned into a five-hour marathon as each club used all the batters on the squad. Pete Lomax, talented square leg, led the Del Monte batters in Saturday's match, scoring 33 runs. On Sunday, Henry Khan shuttled for 16 runs, but his fine effort was overshadowed by Marin's Ken Chatfield who tallied 31 runs and still not retired.

Next Sunday, afternoon at Marin, the Del Monte Club starts play in the Price Cup Matches, and, off their showing in league play, the local cricketers should be favorites to win the coveted Price title.

CLAYTON CLEANERS EDGED BY 20-30 CLUB

Manager Dufur's Clayton Cleaners softball team suffered a double loss at Sunset Field Saturday night, losing a 4-2 game to the Monterey 20-30 Club and losing the services of star performer, Dionicio Narvaez, for the rest of the season. Narvaez, an all-around player who can pitch, play the infield positions well, and cover lots of ground in the outfield, collided with Sonny Cota as they were chasing an outfield fly and suffered a fractured cheek bone. Saturday night's tilt with the 20-30 Club was close all the way until the last frame when the visitors pushed across three runs to untie a 1-1 deadlock. The Cleaners got on the board in the second canto as Tom Hefling and Narvaez chipped in with successive singles. 20-30's pitcher, Jack Duckworth, closed the door on the local swingers after the one run in the second and dealt out nothing but goose eggs until the bottom of the seventh. John DeAmaral, the ubiquitous golf-ball merchant, winged them over for the Cleaners, holding the club to 5 hits and striking out 10. However, little John suffered streaks of wildness which kept him in hot water for most of the contest.

CARMEL JUNIOR LEGION WHACKS MONTEREY, 16 TO 10

Carmel's Post 512 junior legion baseball team zoomed to a 15-1 lead over arch-rival Monterey Post 41 in the first five innings last Saturday, and coasted to a comfortable 16 to 10 victory. In notching their third straight victory in junior legion play, the Carmel lads treated Fred Rick, Monterey's sensational All-CCAL pitcher, like a close cousin when they greeted him with a 12-hit barrage as he toiled the first five innings.

While the Carmel lads were exploding against the slants of Rick, Post 512's starting pitcher, Mike Mosolf, hurled hitless ball and gave up one run as he developed a wild streak in the fifth frame. Dick Jennings took over the mound duties for the Carmel gang in the sixth heat and allowed four hits in his two-inning stint. Wild as a senior on graduation night, Jennings gave up seven walks and saw his mates chip in with five errors as Monterey crossed the plate for 9 runs.

Carmel had a big inning in the fourth as they batted around to score 10 runs and turn the game into a rout. Bob Michela, Post 512 catcher, was the leading hitter of the game, banging out 4 hits in 5 chances and scoring 3 runs. Carmel's sharp-eyed leadoff batter, West Whittaker, scored 4 runs as he walked the first four times at bat and rode across the platter on Michela's big bat.

Second round play in junior legion baseball starts this Saturday afternoon as Carmel journeys to Salinas for a 2 o'clock game, and Hollister crosses bats with Monterey at the El Estero Park in Monterey.

PINE CONE LOSES TO SAN JOSE, 7 TO 1

Six glaring errors betrayed Jim Morton's five-hit pitching performance last Saturday night as the visiting Leon Terry softball club from San Jose coasted to a 7-1 victory over Joe Nicholson's Pine Cone aggregation. Big Jim scattered five hits to the hard-hitting tavern gang and doled out three walks over the seven-inning route. Morton's pitching opponent, veteran Bud Bosque, was touched for four hits and issued only one walk as he reluctantly gave up one run. The San Jose team put on a snappy performance for an enthusiastic Sunset Field crowd which was enjoying AA softball for the first time this season. Sparked by John Hannah, former Hollister High football coach, who belted a double off the school building and scored two runs, the Terry gang showed lots of speed on the bases and fielded brilliantly.

After spotting the visitors two runs in the second inning, the Coners got one of them back in the bottom half of the same frame as Gene Vandervort, slick-fielding shortstop, boomed a solid double over the leftfield fence and scored on an error by the Terry first-sacker. This ended the scoring for the printers although they threatened in the fourth as Jim Morton and Henry put together back-to-back singles but failed to score as Bosque tightened up to retire the side. Terry's put together another two-run inning in the sixth as walks to Hannah and O'Brien were followed by a double off the bat of Gene Menges, San Jose State College assistant football coach.

This Saturday night at 8 o'clock, the San Juan Rebels will invade Sunset Field for a joust with the Coners.

Mrs. Wight Notes G. I. Influence In Noumea Native Way Of Life

Of different interest is the letter which Mrs. Sophie H. Marshall received recently from Mrs. H. M. Wight. This letter tells about the South Seas while most news from abroad now seems to come from Europe where Carmelites in quantities seem to be travelling.

"The first lap of my trip toward Africa is ending," reports Mrs. Wight from Noumea, New Caledonia. "We had a very pleasant month aboard this Norwegian freighter with 12 very pleasant companions and excellent food and service. Tahiti and Samoa were very interesting islands. The dense tropical vegetation and interesting native homes were beautiful. I was very disappointed in Suva, Fiji, but, fortunately, we stopped at another town called Lautoka which had a rich countryside of beautiful sugar cane, rice fields, pineapple groves and the usual mango, taro, and other plantations like coconut and coffee.

"Noumea is a French-owned island. At first in the extreme heat it seemed like a very sleepy place—but, we have had a few cooler days which gave me a chance to go about and visit the stores and see the beauty of the country. There is an especially lovely shoreline. My hotel is next door to the South Pacific Commission which is located in a large concrete pentagon-like building and was Admiral Halsey's headquarters during the war. Many quonset huts are now in a sort of jungle and inhabited by natives. A former large hospital across the street is now the French oceanography scientific research headquarters. An American is now the head of the South Pacific Commission which is attempting by research to improve health, food, production and living in these islands."

Next stop on Mrs. Wight's voyage will be Australia she reports. While she has been travelling westwards her son, Murrey, who was in Europe, has crossed the Atlantic in a sailing vessel and is now on his way home from Florida.

MISS BORGERT'S MISHAP

Miss Charlotte Borgert planned a summer in Carmel to get away from the heat in Southern California, but she did not intend to spend a great deal of her time with her foot in a plaster cast due to a broken bone in her ankle, and, therefore necessarily somewhat confined to home. She is occupying the Torres Street house of Mrs. Eleanor White while Mrs. White is in Colorado for the summer.

TOWN HOUSE NEWS

Mrs. Sylvia Jordan, formerly a teacher in the Carmel school system, will give a talk at Town House on Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. She will tell of her experiences, both as a traveller and a teacher, in Bolivia. In this capacity Mrs. Jordan was able to know the people of the country as few visitors can ever expect. She will also show some of the treasures she collected in South America such as costumes, antique silver and textiles. Tea will be served after the talk.

NEW BOX RENT DEAL

It's box rent time again! Postmaster Fred Mylar announces that post office box rent is due June 20 and for the first time rent may be paid in advance for a fiscal year or four quarters. Otherwise it is still one quarter year at a time. The first plan should be of help to vacationers who might be away from Carmel longer than three months. Demand for boxes in the post office is at a premium with a long list of persons waiting to have a little private niche for their mail. Personal checks on Carmel banks, or money orders, are acceptable, if one is unable to queue up at one of the windows in the post office. Promptness of payment is guarantee against being dispossessed.

Birthday Party For Millar At Rehearsal

Rehearsals for the concert to be given by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium on July 17 are now being held, and Gregory Millar was on hand last Monday evening to rehearse the Brahms Violin Concerto. David Abel, who was also present, and whose performance created so much enthusiasm last fall, will again be heard in the summer concert. The Symphony Association President, Mr. Fritz Wurzmann, and several of the board, were on hand, including Canon and Mrs. Charles Dowdell, Colonel Philip Schneeberger, Mr. F. W. Titus, and others, who came to honor the birthday of the conductor.

Half way through the evening a tea wagon was rolled onto the podium, bearing a cake with blazing candles, and a cleverly cut-out colored figure of the conductor and orchestral instruments, made by Mrs. Stanley Cummings, was put on his desk and signed by many of the players. Mr. Millar was taken by surprise, while everyone sang Happy Birthday. He received many congratulations while all drank coffee and sampled the cake. Then, just before resuming rehearsal, the following poetic greeting, designed to include the whole orchestra, was read aloud by the Author Miss Lindsay-Oliver.

"To Gregory Millar, Conductor of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

"Did they but know from whence the mystic sounds

That circle the earth on their pinions of love are born,

A reverence would come for all great music.

Those who play musicians' dreams but touch,

In search and feeling, an infinitesimal part

Of Spirit's essence—Music of the

Parents! What Would We Do Without Them? Sydney Writes Home

She was on the point of leaving Sweden for Germany when the letter was written, and relates that she had a very social life in the Scandinavian country, and, as spring had arrived she was busy sightseeing. Sydney said that she feels that the way to see Europe is to be entirely "on one's own" as she is, but she was amazed that, "I find my actions influenced most decidedly by the things, Daddy (Reuben

When they had gone home, about 1:30, Rowena and Elizabeth went to bed. Just before dozing off, Elizabeth said, "There's a noise."

"You're hearing things," said Rowena.

"No. There it is again."
By this time they were both paralyzed, as Rowena heard it, too. As they had to go through the diningroom to get to the bedroom, Rowena was afraid to go back to see how her two sons, Dan and Jim (me) were. They got into the livingroom. Elizabeth said, "We don't have anything to defend ourselves with." They got an umbrella and a high-heeled shoe. They also called for a neigh-

THE NAVY

The Navy is not like the movies or the tales you hear from your grandfathers when they rode with John Paul Jones. The Navy is nice in some ways. It protects our country. I have two brothers that just came out of the Navy and they didn't like to eat beans every Friday and did not like to get up at 6:30 in the morning. That is my story.

Harvey Current Hit At Golden Bough Circle

Reviewed by KATE SCHLEPP

One of the funniest comedies to hit Broadway several years back was the Mary Chase show Harvey. It was funny then when this reviewer saw it, and here in Carmel, having seen it three times with rehearsals and two opening weekend performances, I still find it one of the best ways to spend an evening I can think of. The local cast has two top-flight leads, Ruth Marion McElroy as the harassed sister, and Louis Cutelli as her brother whose constant companion is a six-foot rabbit. Their timing and interpretation of these two main roles, their assurance and warm-hearted sincerity, and an infallible flair for comedy all add up to success for the Circle Theatre's current hit. Joan Craig as the daughter gives a wonderful life to her adolescent role, alternately bratty and honey-sweet, with the touch of eccentricity befitting a member of the Dowd household. Her understudy, Kathy Kollmer, took over the part Saturday night and did an equally good portrayal.

Don Gunderson deserves much commendation for his many efforts on this show as director, as set designer and as Dr. Chumley, the psychiatrist who gets hoisted with his own psychotic petard in believing in and coveting the rabbit for himself. The direction is very smooth and well-paced, the sets are executed unusually well considering there must be two entirely different scenes played: the sanitarium, modern and sunlit and efficient; the Dowd living room, fusty, dusty and Victorian.

As Dr. Chumley, Don Gunderson was very funny. Also cast for comedy is his orderly, Wilson, who creates quite a character for himself in a role which, played straight, might not have been amusing at all. This is due to the interpretation of William Grant, last seen in Deep Blue Sea in a very different role. Howard Veit, Jr., and Gloria Rust as Dr. Chumley's assisting psychiatrist and nurse respectively, were refreshing and believable. Others who brightened and rounded out this excellent cast were Jeanne McConnell, Chase Drake, Ed Pye and A. Timothy Ewald.

Smoothly functioning shows require a good backstage crew and Michel MacKay, on her first job as stage manager, did beautifully, ably assisted by Melodi Brien in the sound and light booth, Betsy Pye and Kathy Kollmer, on properties assisted by Ruth Warshawsky whose husband, Buck, painted the realistic and delightful painting of Dowd and the rabbit. Henrietta Shore also contributed a painting. Make-up was handled by Allyn, and hair-styling by Henry. Flowers used were from Piccadilly Florists.

Full houses applauded this very amusing and well-done comedy and it should be a "must" on the calendar for people who are especially fond of arena-style plays. Harvey will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30 for five more week-ends.

River School Unit Bid $7,000 Lower Than Estimated

Ekelin and Small of Salinas offered low bid for the construction of the new unit at Woods School and were awarded the job at a special meeting of the school board Friday afternoon.

Their bid for the six class room unit (two rooms to be left without partition and to be utilized as a multi-use room for the present), was $60,831.00, which figures out $8.28 per square foot cost to the district.

"Better than we expected," School District Architect Tom Elston of Elston and Cranston, told the Pine Cone, adding that he had estimated the job at $67,000.

Cost per square foot for constructing the multi-use room at Woods School was $8.50; and the last unit constructed at River cost $9.10 per square foot.

Other bidders were: Harold Geyer, $64,437; Joseph Fratessa, $65,475; Taylor and Vial, $68,912.

Work started Tuesday, and the school board hopes one or two classrooms will be finished before contract completion date, September 20, so they can be used when school opens.

Floyd Adams was engaged as building inspector for the job.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

A friend asked me to "enlarge on bugs". I cried out, "Let us not enlarge on bugs, let us minimize on bugs." And the only way to minimize is to spray . . . spray . . . and spray some more. Aphids are with us always. They steal, like Arabs in the night, without tents, to every tender shoot in the garden. You can take your pick of colors, too, for aphids come in red, black, sloppy white, green, and bluish. Some aphids attach themselves to tender buds and remain for life; others grow wings; others grow feet, and others just slither along. New rose buds are the aphid's favorite resting place. To the unpracticed eye they do not look alarming, but to those in the know, those tiny white spots on our rose buds are sapping strength and color away.

Then along comes thrip, one of the deadly-deadly. Thrip is invisible to the naked eye. The only way I know to diagnose thrip is to take a piece of clear white paper; gently tap a suspended branch on the paper. What looks like loose pepper will fall on the paper and remain very still. If you watch, soon these tiny mites will begin to scurry for cover, as though black pepper had suddenly decided to "take a powder".

These two enemies of the garden, aphids and thrip, suck the life from the plant. Leaves turn yellow, stalks begin to wilt, and unless remedial methods are applied, you can say good-bye to the garden.

As if this were not enough, we have beetles, slugs and snails. These babies are adept at chewing. The way to distinguish between beetle, snail and slug, is to examine the leaf. Holes drilled in the center of leaf tell the stories of beetles; holes torn along the edge of a leaf, speak of slugs and snails.

All of these pests are easily eliminated. Snail bait is sold everywhere, and this snail and slug bait is effective. I've seen one garden, "the morning after", with snails lying in heaps and clusters, dead as dead.

Spray for beetles and aphids and thrip can be gotten at any garden supply store. All nurseries carry these supplies. Spraying is a simple project. I prefer the pint size bottle attached to the hose and all you have to do is to "water" the sucking and chewing bugs to death.

But wait a minute! July brings the whitefly! Of all the meanest pests known to science, the white fly takes the medal. This unwanted visitor sucks yours plants to death, and then to make his job professional, the whitefly leaves black smudges in plants and on white houses. It takes a new paint job to eradicate this sooty smudge, for all the water in the dam won't clean a white house that has been host to whitefly.

Excuse me a moment. I've got to go out and spray!

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK

My wife and I have just returned from a five-day trip to Yosemite National Park. I might call this week's column "Conservationist on the March". The word "march" is used by many Europeans instead of our more homely word "hike". Actually I did only a small amount of hiking, since the main purpose of the trip was business, but I always try to get in a few short walks on trips of this kind.

Yosemite was the first reservation from public lands set aside for its outstanding scenic quality. Abraham Lincoln signed the Act of Congress in 1864 ceding the valley and the Mariposa Grove of sequoias to the State of California for park purposes. Many years later it was re-ceded to the Government and became a part of the national park system, but in the meantime Congress had established Yellowstone National Park in 1872; therefore Yellowstone has the technical claim to being the first national park set aside for its primitive scenic quality.

The various falls that plunge from the rim cliffs to the valley are one of Yosemite's main attractions. At this time of year they are in full flood, and we were fortunate in catching them at their peak. Falls can be seen at this time of year that are not in evidence at other times. Sentinel Falls, second highest in the park, was unusually beautiful, and we picnicked beside its forested banks one day. Ribbon Fall, just west of El Capitan, the highest single fall in the park, was also conspicuous from many viewpoints. Later on it disappears completely.

With the closing of many schools Yosemite is becoming crowded as usual in the summer. At times the noise of traffic, including many large supply trucks, resembles that of a large city, and there seems to be no curfew on it. However, it is easily possible to find wilderness conditions, if one is seeking quiet beauty.

One day we drove on the Glacier Point road to the beginning of a trail that leads to Taft Point. This is a huge cliff with spectacular views lying on the valley rim between Sentinel Point and the Cathedral Rocks. About half an hour's easy walk through the woods brought us there. We had the whole south rim country almost to ourselves, only meeting one other party during the afternoon. Snow plants were beginning to appear, and the forest floor, freshly washed by melting snow, was at its best.

Another interesting experience was a climb in the cool of the evening—we had really hot weather on this trip—to the foot of the Upper Yosemite Fall. Strolling at a leisurely pace up the zig-zags of the trail, I found myself rounding the corner facing this second-highest free-leaping fall in the world in a little over an hour. I have often wondered why so few people give themselves this really thrilling experience. There are no steep grades on the trail and anyone in ordinarily good physical condition will have no difficulty in making it. Standing there so close to this superb manifestation of natural power and beauty is an unforgettable experience, especially in early June.

Alice Allcutt Shows Jewelry At Library

The June exhibit of the Carmel Crafts Guild in the Carmel Library consists of jewelry made by Alice Allcutt.

Jewelry making began as a hobby for Miss Allcutt in February 1949. Planning retirement from her teaching profession at San Francisco State College, she enrolled in adult education courses in jewelry and lapidary work. In 1951 she moved to Carmel, where she continued her jewelry craft and became a member of the Carmel Craft Guild.

Miss Allcutt's hobby pieces have been sold in gift shops throughout the state and on the Monterey Peninsula. With the recent opening of the Carmel Crafts Studios on San Carlos Avenue, Miss Allcutt with two other jewelry craftsmen, rented a studio known as Craft Harbor.

Abbie Corder

Mrs. Abbie Corder of San Rafael died on Thursday in a local hospital. She suffered a heart attack in the early hours of the morning and was taken to the hospital by the Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Fire Department. Mrs. Corder was a guest at the time in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Weston. She had come here to visit them a few weeks ago.

She was born in Marysville on October 23, 1877. Her husband, Horace Corder died in Carmel on November 24, 1949, while he was also on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Weston.

Survivors, besides Mrs. Weston, are three other daughters, Mrs. Glenn Hughes and Mrs. Grace Wilson of San Rafael, and Mrs. James Gowanlock of San Francisco; two sons by former marriage, Clinton Russell of Santa Rosa and Frank Newlin of San Francisco, and by three grandchildren, Douglas Williams and Gerald Hughes of San Rafael and Helen Russell of Santa Rosa.

Private funeral services were held on Saturday in the Paul Mortuary with the Reverend Bernard W. Lowry officiating. Inurnment took place in El Carmelo Columbarium.

CARMEL CAMERA

By Candida

We open our little rotogravure section today with an interior shot of Mrs. MacMillan Kerr, smiling, outgoing and gracious . . . serving demi-tasses to her dinner guests at her dining table. The young man she's handing one to is a Turk, currently enrolled at the Monterey Peninsula College, and he's wearing that look of Turkish delight because this is the first demi-tasse he's had his hands on during his entire year in our midst . . . and it's a real touch of home, for he tells her that demi-tasse cups are practically all that Turkish brews ever get poured into in the so-far-and-yet-so-Near-East. Making foreign students feel at-home-away-from-home is high on Mrs. Kerr's list of year-round activities, as an active member of the local International Scholarship Committee, which holds itself responsible for financing a couple of them. She gets a lot of extra chances to interpret civilization-as-we-know-it to those of foreign cultures because of the numbers of them that file through the Kaiser Magnesia plant which her husband operates—and he's apt to bring some home with him. I wish I had a picture of this sympathetic hostess in the borrowed mantle of Dorothy Dix, dispensing counsel to an emotionally mixed-up Moslem-Jewish guest in love with a White-Russian-Scotch-Wild Irish Rose and wondering if, altar-wise, he should Act Now, or Wait and See. Mrs. Kerr strongly supported the latter course, and time proved her all too right. Fortunately, he'd hung on her words, waited and saw what a faux pas it would have been! Here is a "hostess with the mostess" in global solicitude!

This vivid young matron charging the camera with a sharp pencil and scratchpad is slim, trim-as-a-toreador Dori (Mrs. Thomas) Hooper, about to pin me down for two dozen canapes for the late day party to be given by the Symphony Board for the West Coast branch of the American Symphony Association at its Asilomar conclave on July 16. Background for this shot is the week-end home of the Franklin Dixons on the Carmel River, where the Symphony Association last Sunday held its annual picnic for board brass, players and their dependents. (No, this doesn't mean the Dixons have returned from their prolonged globe-girdling.) Very little grass sprouts beneath Dori's fast-moving feet, for besides the responsibility of a small daughter and a large house (neither of which she takes lightly), and the unrelenting demands of Symphony board membership, she is past secretary and present Placement Chairman for the Monterey Peninsula League for Community Service, devoting many woman-hours to seeing that the League members utilize their woman hours to the most telling effect. In a coolie hat and Chinese brocade, Dori looks much more Oriental than most of us, and was cast as that walk-on Cathay character who beat the opening gong in the League's recent Kiddies' Legitimate production of Aladdin. Just throw a Spanish shawl on her, and Dori would look plausibly Hispanic.

In this riverside etude of Jeanine (Mrs. Peter) Dyer, that far-away look in her lovely face is brought about by the fact that her great sea-blue eyes are fixed on her two small boys, adrift on inner tubes in the Dixon's dammed-up river swimming pool. In board member Jeanine's life, there is little time for drifting and dreaming, for in addition to the little brothers, there is a ravishing blonde sister barely up on her feet, and not only does she have tenderly but firmly to preserve order among this threesome, but she is also Arts Chairman for the Monterey Peninsula League, and with Dori, was a prime mover in getting the League to sponsor the Symphony concerts for children this spring. To the alien eye, one of the greatest marvels of the Americanorama (as Mrs. Kerr has discovered in her international relationships) is the all-purpose American wife, who not only keeps such a deft hand on the distaff but pitches in as a welfare worker at both the local—and international—levels. And all this in spite of living in No Maids Land!

Handle With Care

Tractors are like horses—or mules—in more ways than one. They can be pretty tricky if you don't handle them right.

Too many tractor accidents happen because of carelessness. The day grows hot and drowsy, the job grows monotonous—and bingo! Someone forgets to throttle down when making a turn, or something, and there's a bad spill.

Credit Slim Hartman's missus for the fact that there's never been tractor trouble on their place. Midway through every morning and afternoon she brings him snacks. "He'll stay on the alert," she says, "if I get him off the tractor for ten minutes."

From where I sit, carelessness can cause plenty of harm in our off-the-job personal lives, too. For instance, suppose a neighbor prefers a glass of beer with supper. You might not share this particular preference with him—but if you're careless about protecting his right to choose, your own freedom of choice is in danger of being "plowed under."

Carmelita Fortier Is Engaged

A surprise to everyone but the immediate family was the announcement this week by Mr. and Mrs. George Jennings Fortier of the engagement of their daughter, Carmelita (C.J.) to Charles John Amann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Charles Amann of Cincinnati. "C.J." is a graduate of Carmel High School. She attended the University of California and then continued her education at Seattle University from which she graduated in 1953. James Paul Monroe Arrives

June 8 is bound to be quite a date in the Howard Monroe family since last week, when Paul was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital, and the reason is, that it was also the first birthday of his brother, Richard William. Sam Colburn on Western Slope

Every spring Sam Colburn begins to think of Colorado, and the Western slope, and of all the pictures he could paint if he were there. Plummer, a violinist, played with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra during the years he was stationed at Fort Ord. In Europe he has been stationed with the 7th Army Special Services and a player in their symphony orchestra, which has toured through Germany, France, Italy and the United Kingdom. Due to a performance which this group gave in Manchester, England, featuring Beethoven and Walton concertos, in which Plummer starred, he was later presented with the Arnold Bax Medal for outstanding musical performance at a ceremony held in London. While he and his wife were on vacation last year in Italy they encountered Gaston Usigli, director of Carmel's Bach Festival, on a street in Venice. Usigli took them to his brother's home in Venice for tea and helped make their stay in the Italian city most happy in many ways.

Hal Garrett Has Party

Wallace, Miss Flora Stewart, Grace Carroll and Herbert Heron. Represented were the various cross-sections of the community with which Mr. Garrett had come in contact during the years he has lived in his Hatton Fields home, which he has now sold, for he plans to live in Los Gatos.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Local people who are going away for a vacation are privileged to charge out library books for a three months period. This may be your chance to read at leisure while resting up for a hectic year ahead. There is no specific limit as to number, but be reasonable, because this is a small library.

The summer story hour program starts Saturday, June 18, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Libraries always prize the National Geographic Magazine. It has a timeless authenticity which makes every number invaluable. We are subscribing for a new bindery service on this magazine which should prove very worth while, especially to students. Using duplicate copies which we furnish, the bindery takes each issue apart, and cases each individual article in a cover. The service furnishes 50 pamphlet boxes, classified as to subject matter, and the individual articles are filed in these boxes under the class to which they belong. Service for Carmel will begin with the 1945 volume, and continue to date, and henceforth. The articles will be charged out just as is a book or pamphlet. They will be shelved in the reference section on the main level of the library. Because 50 pamphlet boxes take up considerable space, their shelving will entail some shifting of materials already on these shelves, but the increased service to the public will be well worth the effort. This material has not yet arrived, but we have the shipping notice, so it won't be long. Be looking for it soon.

Regular patrons are noticing that the new fiction is now being placed on the examination shelves with the new non-fiction. We have always had waiting lists and reserved book service on fiction, but often a new book went out immediately and as fast as it came in it went out again. Patrons sometimes complained that they never had a chance to examine the new fiction. This arrangement will remedy that situation but it will make the books one week later in starting to circulate. We are hoping that the advantage will outweigh this disadvantage.

Circulation is showing a steady growth. From 15 to 20 new books are put out each week. Is your library card in good working condition?

Bob Johnson Promoted

Robert L. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson of Carmel, has been promoted to engineer second class as a result of successfully completing the Navy-wide competitive examinations last February. He is at present serving aboard the submarine, USS Calman stationed at Pearl Harbor. While in Japan, Bob ran into both Pat and Mike Dormody at different times and the boys were amused because they are next door neighbors in Carmel, grew up together and attended Carmel High School.

Audubon Field Trip

A tour of the Monterey Peninsula is planned for Saturday morning by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society. The trip will end at Point Lobos where lunch will be eaten, and a field trip is scheduled for the afternoon. The members making the peninsula tour are asked to meet at El Estero in Monterey at the corner of Fremont Street and Camino El Estero at 8:00 o'clock in the morning. Members who wish to join the group for lunch are asked to check at Point Lobos State Park gate for information as to where the picnic area will be.

Ketcham Plans Move

Hank Ketcham, originator of the Dennis the Menace cartoons, plans to move from Carmel to the Valley where he has recently purchased the former Wolferman property. He is also thinking of transferring his cartoon operations, as well as his home, to the new location.

Chloe Wilson to Columbia

When the sixth annual College of the Pacific summer drama season opens at the historic Fallon House Theater in Columbia, Tuolumne County, Chloe Wilson of Carmel Highlands will be a member of the group known as the Pacific Theater Columbia Company.

Grete Singer to Have Show

The paintings of Margarete Singer will be shown on Saturday and Sunday from 10:30 o'clock till 5:30 o'clock in the show room of the Stoneglaze Associates at the Carmel Craft Studios. The show is open to the public.

Laidlaw Williams Surprised

Last Thursday evening some 30 friends drove up Fern Canyon road to the Highlands' home of Laidlaw Williams to give him a surprise dinner party on the occasion of his birthday. Abbie Lou, his wife, had baked a large cake which for some reason only displayed ten candles, and was carried into the room by Bozzie, Laidlaw's son, and Mardi Lloyd. Others who sang "Happy Birthday" were, Laidlaw's daughter, Alice; his mother, Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams; his brother, Lyn; and Mr. and Mrs. John Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Highley and Peter; Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner and their daughter, Tasha; Mrs. Russell Williams and her daughters, Mrs. Ben Chaffey and Honey, and her son, John; Philip McDougall, Juanita Price, Richard Lofton, and the Frank Lloyds with Cindy.

Masons to Confer Degree

The Carmel Masonic Lodge will confer a third degree on Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Masonic Temple. Refreshments will be served following the ceremony.

Car Trouble for the Kochers

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher set forth from Carmel on Saturday bound for Berkeley and a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Harner, and their two granddaughters, but, fate, in the form of car trouble, forced them to stop in San Jose and borrow a car from Dr. Kocher's nephew, George, for the rest of the trip. They returned to San Jose on Sunday and Mrs. Kocher and the old car stayed there until Tuesday, when she drove home in a brand new car leaving the old one with the dealer.

Pop's Progress

London, England,
May 31, 1955.

My Dear Wilma:

Since I last wrote I have travelled many miles and though I tried to write everything down, I got mixed up.

In Brussels we stayed at the Cosmopolite which was very comfortable but the bath was in the hall. I called up the office to contact someone who could talk English and so was told the maid would draw my bath for me, Sir. Enuff! I went into the hall and the maid was standing by a tub full of water. So, I looked at her, she looked at me, and . . . we parted.

The beauty and charm of Brussels is hard to describe, the large magnificent buildings, the market place with the different shops, like a large department store all on the same floor.

We have had good weather most of the time except for a heavy shower which prevented me from taking a snap of a very interesting statue of a little boy which you may have heard about. The story is that the little boy was lost and his father promised to erect a statue of him in whatever position he was found. He had to build a fountain.

Breakfasts are always set out ready in the morning in this country. Here there were seven kinds of bread, boiled eggs and some evil tasting coffee. I don't use sugar and cream at home but I did there so that I could drink the strong stuff.

Did I tell you about the milk carts? The milkmen drag them through the streets.

Well we left Brussels and went to Paris, where I neglected my diary, but everything was breathtaking and we were busy all the time seeing sights, so I didn't have time to take notes. But, I have photos.

Coming into France we had the same old passport and money business. It seemed to cost thousands of francs to buy anything there. Well, there were sidewalk cafes, Arc de Triomphe, the Eiffel Tower Arc de Triomphe, the Eiffel Tower and, I blush, Pigalle.

With all good wishes, I remain,

Your good friend,
Pop Smith.

P.S. Needless to say I miss all my dear friends and the "Hello, Pop" which I hear everywhere in Carmel.

London, England
June 4, 1955.

Dear Wilma:

Well, TWA is still looking after me. When I got off the plane in England, I started off for the station but was called back and told I was to ride in a bus to the customs. When I got there I told them I was born in England 80 years ago, and the customs official looked at me and said:

"You're an old fraud, you don't look a day over 60!" and passed me without opening my bags.

Then TWA drove me 30 miles, free, to my nephew's where I am staying.

Eight years ago when I was here I had sunny weather all the time, but my luck played out last night and it rained, and is still raining. London is an awful place to get around in since the strike. One has to queue up for buses, sometimes there is a line of 100 persons, on most of the corners. The English take everything cheerfully in their stride. It took my niece three hours to get to work the first day of the strike.

Yesterday one of my nieces met me at the Cumberland Hotel and hiked me all over a small part of London. It was quite a hike. Another niece came to meet us that evening and I took them to dinner at the Grosvenor Hotel. I had a wonderful time, old me, with two good looking young ladies.

All good things come to an end and they put me in a long queue so that I could get the bus back here to Catford. But something went wrong and I walked miles to get to my destination. Twenty-seven holes of golf won't phase me when I get back to Carmel after my London hikes.

I hope to go to Wales on Saturday. My love to everyone in Carmel. I really miss going to the post office and having all those cherry "hellos" thrown at me.

I remain, your Carmelite,
Pop Smith.

JACOBSEN MEMORIAL FUND

At the Carmel Business Association quarterly meeting last night, a barbecue at Holman's Guest Ranch, tribute was paid the late Andy Jacobson, for many years chairman of the county board of supervisors.

Corum Jackson, his long time friend, proposed a memorial, in the form of a portrait to be hung in the supervisors' chambers in Salinas. "Something everybody can have a part in with contributions of fifty cents or a buck", said Jackson, and found dollar bills bearing down on him from all sides.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Scriptural selections from the King James Version of the Bible stress the supremacy of spiritual power and include the account of Christ Jesus feeding the multitude as recorded by Matthew (14:12-20) and John's account (6:16-21) of Jesus walking on the sea.

Among the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following (273:21-26): "God never ordained a material law to annul the spiritual law. If there were such a material law, it would oppose the supremacy of Spirit, God, and impugn the wisdom of the creator. Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws."

Peninsula Citizens To Honor Jackson With Dinner June 30

For 23 years Corum Jackson has been an active figure in the business, social and political life of the Monterey Peninsula, and these long years of service will be acknowledged on June 30, when he is to be the guest of honor at a community dinner, to be held in the Exhibition Hall on the Monterey County Fair grounds.

The list of Jackson's activities is impressive, among them being a charter member of the Carmel American Legion, a director of the Carmel branch of the American Red Cross and president of the Carmel Business Association. For 12 years he was a director of the Monterey County Fair serving as president for four years. He has served with the Advisory Committee of the Monterey County Planning Commission for 16 years, representing Carmel. In 1940 he joined the Monterey Peninsula Rotary Club, becoming chairman of its Aims and Objects Committee. In 1950 he was organizer and first president of the Carmel Rotary Club at the request of Rotary's District Governor, William Clasen.

During World War II, Corum was the first chairman of the Voluntary Rent Control Committee and in 1943 was vice-chairman of OPA Rationing Board for the Monterey Peninsula. From 1941-47 he was president of the Monterey Realty Board, and served for four years as a director of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce and organized the Convention Bureau in 1953.

Of particular interest to Carmel is the fact that while serving as chairman of the Carmel Park Commission, Corum Jackson originated the initiative measure to protect the beach by allowing nothing to be built on it except with the approval of the voters.

Sixteen years he has served on the Republican Central Committee and he is chairman at present. Besides this community service Corum has been making a living as a realtor. He entered this field as a partner of Byington Ford in 1938, in the firm known as the Carmel Realty Company. He bought out Ford in 1942. He has been prominent in the development of Carmel Woods, the Mission Tract, Airway Ranch, Rancho Rio Vista and Monte Vista.

Jackson lives in the Mission tract, where in his leisure moments, he gardens, collects antique glass and listens to his large collection of records.

The committee planning the dinner to honor him is composed of Carmel Martin, Sr., S. F. B. Morse, T. A. Work, Sr., Mrs. Mark Raggett, Mrs. Geraldine Smith, Howard Severance, John B. Geisen,

PUBLIC HEARING ON SALES TAX

The council invites citizens to attend the council meeting Wednesday night, 8:00 o'clock, in city hall to express opinions on the new ordinance increasing the city sales tax to one cent. It is now a half cent. The ordinance had first reading at last week's council meeting. It will have second reading and be passed at Wednesday night's meeting.

Since the passage of the uniform sales tax law by the state legislature gives counties the option of levying a sales tax, the council is of the opinion that the supervisors will pass a one-cent county-wide sales tax, in which case people shopping in Carmel would have to pay a cent, of which the city would collect only a half cent, if the city itself did not raise its tax to the cent level.

Months will elapse before the county can act but the council is rushing the increase through so it can be effective at the beginning of the city's fiscal year, July 1.

The public hearing, at which objections would have no weight under the circumstances, can be more than just a matter of form if the citizens will ask the council members how they plan to spend the doubled revenue.

—W.C.

Arch Balchin, Howard Veit and Wesley W. Kegan.

Ladies as well as men are invited to the affair and dress will be informal. Refreshments will be served at 6:00 o'clock with dinner starting promptly at 7:00. Plans for serving 700 persons are being made.

Jon Menand, who plans to attend Monterey Peninsula College, and then the University of Oregon, has in his senior year, and the two summers preceding it, contributed to conservation in several ways. During the summer of 1953 he obtained his first job with the California Division of Forestry, which included firefighting in Carmel Valley. He worked with the Forestry Division again on his vacation in 1954 and will do so again this summer.

Through his contact with the Division of Forestry he obtained 50 pine seedlings which the student council of Carmel High School planted on the campus in observation of Conservation Week.

Previous to his forestry work, Jon studied conservation in his biology classes and with his teacher, Miss Enid Larson, took a trip in his sophomore year, into the Los Padres National Forest to study conservation problems. In his junior year he continued his conservation studies in his biology course.

Jim Hallett began his conservation program in the 8th grade. He was a senior Audubon Club member and with this group participated in their various field trips. He studied science with Miss Larson and attended the conven-

Chief Deputy D.A. Gets Appointment To Succeed Burr Scott

William H. Stoffers was the unanimous choice of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, on Monday, to complete the term of the late District Attorney Burr Scott. This term runs until 1958. Stoffers had been serving as chief deputy to his predecessor.

Stoffers was born in Watsonville, 40 years ago, and is a graduate of the University of California and the Oakland College of Law. He entered the army in 1941 and served in the South Pacific with the 1st Cavalry Division. After he was discharged from the army he went into private practice in Red Bluff.

He came to Monterey County in 1949. He and his wife, Albertha, have one son, William, Jr., who is 10½ months old.

tion of the Northern Science Clubs in Pacific Grove.

During his freshman year he continued his work with Miss Larson and his interest in the adult Audubon Club program.

Besides keeping up with this same work in his sophomore year, he again attended the Science Clubs convention in Monterey and was the leader of a marine science field trip for this group at their Asilomar convention. He was also a council member at this meeting. He began work on the problem of how to preserve the color and form of nudibranchs as well as a study of the habits and behaviors of this marine creature.

Jon was assistant weather recorder for the Carmel High School natural area in his junior year, and still worked on his nudibranch project and studied biology with Miss Larson, as well as collecting and working with marine life specimens. He attended the National Audubon conference in La Honda where he devoted much time listening to lectures given on varied aspects of conservation. He was assistant leader for biology classes to Point Lobos.

Senior year found Jon still doing science lab work and chief weather recorder for the high school. He entered his problems of the nudibranch in the Future Scientists of America contest. He still maintained his interest in the Audubon Club and was busy raising 3 Apian Way pines donated to the school by Mrs. Robert Stanton. He was a volunteer fire fighter in Las Padres Forest in the fall and had partial success in preserving the color and form in the nudibranch. He constructed a 100-gallon sea water aquarium for his nudibranch and marine work and was assistant guide for leading the biology class to Point Lobos for study. He studied nature at the park and of special interest, raised a grey squirrel from infancy until it could be released on its own, a period of five months.

business unless they could move their transformer boxes; and so far as we can discover, no added service is to accompany the disinterment of the boxes.

Cleared of confusion, the situation is simply that the company will find it more convenient and more economical to service its boxes above ground, and you can't blame them for trying.

But you can blame the council for letting them get away with it, and you should.

If you are a resident who chose this place in which to live because it is appealing in its natural beauty, you have a right to expect the council to protect that beauty against commercial encroachments, especially in the residence district.

If you are a businessman in town, you have an equity in the beauty, measurable in dollars and cents; you have a right to demand of the council that they protect your equity and not jeopardize it for the financial advantage of one favored business.

This council seems prone to listen to the loudest voice. The co-axial people have put on an impressive campaign with lawyer, charts, and engineering testimony. None of you have done anything to counter it. Unless you do, the council will act in this matter as they have in the past, for the advantage of the individual or the few, to the disadvantage of the many, because the many do not make their will known.

Other councils have known, without being told, what is right for Carmel. This council does not.
